Synopsis

THE DISCWORLD

The Discworld exists on the edge of reality, it is a strange and wondrous place where mythical creatures roam the planes and magic is still a force to be harnessed.

The Discworld rests on the shoulders of four giant elephants who are standing on the back of a giant star turtle that swims through space, it's seas pour ceaselessly over the rim into the void in giant waterfalls.

When the sun shines through the mist a rainbow of eight colours hangs in the sky, the eighth colour of the rainbow is octarine, the colour of magic.

On the Discworld belief is a potent force, for example Death as a robed skeleton is not just a metaphor for the process of mortality, he really is a robed skeleton with a rich existence of his own.

The chances of anything so absurd existing are millions to one, but magicians have calculated that million-to-one chances crop up nine times out of ten.

As you can imagine, conventional wisdom gives up rapidly and goes for a drink.

THE STORY

Who would bother to run such a disgusting city as Ankh-Morpork? Of course it used to be a King many years ago until he very conveniently died, apparently without an heir. Now the Patrician thinks he is the supreme ruler.

Drunken and world weary Captain Vimes of the City Watch is prepared to admit the logic of this, but knows that the city really belongs to the person who understands it, caresses it, treats it like the demanding "woman" that it is and guards it with his life - him.

His "staff" includes Nobbs, a converted thief (well nearly converted anyway), cowardly, overweight and opportunistic Sergeant Colon, and the newest recruit - literal-minded, law abiding Lance-Constable Carrot, who is a six foot five inches tall "adopted" dwarf with a rather royal looking birthmark on his shoulder.

The Elucidated Brethren of Ebon Night has other views. Its not too bright members are plotting, in their secret meeting places, with dubious passwords, and borrowed magic, to overthrow all other claims by summoning a Dragon (which they would control) to rule the city.

The battle for power is on! The City Watch is fighting for truth, justice and the Ankh-Morporkian way, aided by Lady Ramkin, a small swamp dragon called Errol and the Librarian of Unseen University (who just happens to be an orangutan).
