DIRECTOR'S NOTE

I remember seeing a short excerpt from "Pack of Lies" starring Michael Williams and Judy Dench during a theatre awards programme on TV some years ago and being very impressed. I vowed then that I would like to produce it in Upham.

It is an intriguing play and falls somewhere in the regions of psychological drama as it is not a thriller in the usual sense. What makes it all the more appealing is the fact that it is based on actual events.

All of the cast have worked very hard and succeeded in bringing the characters to life.

My sincere thanks to Graham Wingate for his adaption of the original set to fit the constraints of Upham Village Hall stage. You must imagine the ground floor of a standard semi-detached house with the hall and stairs to the first floor off stage.

CHAIRPERSON'S NOTE

Since we often have difficulty in finding directors for our productions, it was really exciting when Maggy came forward with the suggestion of a play she was very enthusiastic to direct for us. What is more, many members of our group enjoy acting in more serious, thoughtful plays as well as in our regular panto's and light comedies. So 'Pack of Lies' was an added bonus! Not that it hasn't been very hard work - but we have all enjoyed the challenge - to our acting ability and to our memories! We hope you will find the play as interesting, as moving and as enjoyable as we have done.
